Drivin' home to Alabama I got turned around in Texas
 Saw a fellow at the corner with his thumb out for a ride
 When I stopped for directions I could see he was a rabbit
 But he opened up the door and he hopped inside

I shoulda taken that left turn at Albuquerque
 Went the wrong way at the fork in the road
 Been a long, long day and it's gotten kinda quirky
 But I'm back in 'Bama and I'm getting towed

When I stopped to drop the rabbit off east of Amarillo
 I didn't think that anything could be more absurd
 But this coyote jumped aboard and he waved a stick of dynamite
 Pointed down the road and said "Follow that bird!"

 Went the wrong way at the fork in the road
 Been a long, long day and it's gotten kinda quirky
 But I'm back in 'Bama and I'm getting towed

Well, the dynamite went up and blew us all the way to Wichita
 Coyote hit the highway saying "Thanks for the ride,"
 On the seat he left a packet of Acme tornado seeds
 That grew into a twister with the truck inside

 Went the wrong way at the fork in the road
 Been a long, long day and it's gotten kinda quirky
 But I'm back in 'Bama and I'm getting towed

The tornado set me down a couple miles south of Mobile

With a broom through the windshield, upside-down in a ditch

And when I rolled the window down to see where I had landed

I was starin' at the slippers of an angry witch
